Revised JOC Presentation (Also, a secret spring contest)

Craig A. McKee, CPPB, Director of Outreach and Education

As we do with each of our Training Corner articles, our intention is to inform you about the training information available from Mohave and our website. This month we will let you know about two updated links on The Training Corner.

The first link is to our revised JOC presentation, available here (www.mesc.org/training\_corner.html#JOC). The presentation includes information on our new program of open book pricing for JOC contracts. For more information on this see, Bill Brannen's article here.

In addition to the revised JOC information, the Training Corner also contains a link to the answer to our secret spring contest question. If you click on the secret contest link you'll be taken to a secret webpage. The first member or vendor to email me about the page's content will receive donuts/bagels from me, delivered in person. Plus you can get a free training of your choice.

Official Rules:

- Go to this page.
- Find secret link.
- Click it.
- Email craig@mesc.org a description of the page.
- First correct answer wins the prize.

Disclaimer One: Funds for Donuts/Bagels are provided out of Craig's (barely adequate) donut/bagel funds, and are not provided by Mohave. As such, the donut/bagels might be store brand, and might not be one of those fancy-shmancy donut places, with names like Crunchy Crème™ or DunkMe™ Donuts where they eat donuts with their pinkie out. To put it another way, these may be "low-bid" baked goods.

Disclaimer Two: Arizona is a big state. Some people live far away from Craig's operational bases of Phoenix and Kingman. If you win, and are one of these people, you will need to be patient, or willing to accept that Craig will need to be creative if you win. The most Craig can promise, is he will get you something, somehow.

Disclaimer Three: Members of the Mohave staff are not eligible to win, but are eligible to buy Craig something, if the mood strikes.

While you are finding the answer to the contest we invite you to take a look at the Training Corner page and give us your suggestions for improvement. Our best training topics come from our members and vendors.

If you need more information on training available, or have found the answer to the contest, please contact me at my contact information below.
